Dear Mr. Zenith,

My name is Bill Williams. In June of last year, I filed for disability benefits, but my claim was denied on August 23, 2021. Therefore, I need to appeal the decision. I want to ask for reconsideration as I haven't been able to return to work for more than a year and I strongly need the money to cover essential needs.

I believe I do qualify for the benefits as it has affected my income for more than 12 months, and I intend to provide the paraplegia medical records that I failed to produce in my initial application. After my accident, I was not capable of returning to my previous occupation and was not able to secure any other job. I've tried multiple less-demanding jobs to no success due to one inadequacy or another.

I was a truck driver for years until I got in a severe automobile accident on January 22, 2021, and fell into a coma for five days. I sustained multiple traumatic brain injuries, diffuse axonal injury, and spinal cord injury, leaving me with paraplegic and bipolar disorder. I began seeing Dr. Larson, my physician, on January 28th of that same year. He has treated me ever since and has performed several surgeries on my left foot, head, and spine and prescribed me meds for pain relief and bipolar disorder and my problems with concentration and visual impairment. I have also been treated by Dr. Ketter, a neurologist in Vienna, Austria, who has diagnosed me with visual impairment.

I've attached the following documents;

1. Dr. Larson's Paraplegia records and notes
2. Dr. Prüwer's medical assessment report
3. Past two month's credit card statements

I would like you to reconsider my claim for benefits. My phone number is 002 3892 7522, and my email address is bill1988@email.com. Kindly do not hesitate to reach out. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Yours sincerely,

Bill Williams
